

The Founder's Hook Vault

Thirty hooks you can steal and a two day plan to ship your first posts. The hook is the first line you say or show in the first two seconds. Pick one, fill in the brackets, record.

contrarian

- 1 Posting every day is the worst advice for a busy founder. Here is what actually works.
- 2 Your product is not too boring for video. You are just explaining it wrong.
- 3 Stop hiring an editor. Do this instead until you hit [number] followers.
- 4 Going viral did nothing for our revenue. This quiet thing did.
- 5 Nobody cares about your features. They care about [the problem you solve].

result first

- 1 We got [number] signups from one [number] second video.
- 2 This 12 word script booked us [number] sales calls.
- 3 I closed [your result] in revenue without ever showing my face.
- 4 We cut our content time from 10 hours a week to 40 minutes. Here is the system.
- 5 One post brought in [number] leads while I slept.

curiosity gap

- 1 The reason your reels flatline at [number] views has nothing to do with the algorithm.
- 2 I almost shut down the company. Then a customer said one sentence.
- 3 There is a line in our onboarding that doubled retention. Most founders skip it.
- 4 We deleted half our features and growth went up. Here is which half.
- 5 The first thing I check every morning is not email, revenue, or Slack.

pain

- 1 You spent the weekend editing one reel and it got 200 views. I know the feeling.
- 2 Hiring your first employee feels like betting the company on a stranger.
- 3 You keep starting content, posting for a week, then quitting. Let us fix that.
- 4 Every founder hits the moment where the product works but nobody shows up.
- 5 You are great at building and terrible at telling people about it.

how to

- 1 Here is how to turn one customer call into a week of content.
- 2 How to write a hook in 30 seconds using your own support tickets.
- 3 The three clip structure I use for every product demo.
- 4 How to batch a month of posts in a single afternoon.
- 5 How to script a video when you hate being on camera.

social proof

- 1 A founder used this exact format and hit [number] views in a week.
- 2 [Number] of our clients said the same thing in their first month.
- 3 The hook that took one bootstrapped SaaS from zero to [your result].
- 4 I asked [number] founders what worked. They all named the same tactic.
- 5 This is the post that got us featured by [name or publication].

The 48 hour checklist

The download only matters if you ship. Here is the two day plan that turns these hooks into your first posts.

day 1

- ☐ Read all 30 hooks once and star the 5 that fit your business right now.
- ☐ Fill the brackets in your 5 hooks with real numbers and real outcomes. No placeholders left.
- ☐ Pick your 3 strongest. These are your first 3 posts.
- ☐ Write a rough one or two sentence point for each hook. Where does the line go after the first two seconds.
- ☐ Record 3 rough clips on your phone. Vertical, good light, talk to the lens or screen record your product. Done beats polished.
- ☐ Send the raw clips and your hook lines to your editor (or drop them in Kadr) before you go to bed.

day 2

- ☐ Review the first cut. Check the hook lands in two seconds and captions are readable on mute.
- ☐ Send one round of notes if needed. Resist the urge to nitpick. Ship it.
- ☐ Write a caption for each post. First line repeats or sharpens the hook. End with one clear next step.
- ☐ Add 3 to 5 relevant tags per post. Skip the giant tag dumps.
- ☐ Schedule all 3 across the next week, not all in one day. Pick times you can reply to comments.
- ☐ Post the first one live today and reply to every comment in the first hour.
- ☐ Save the clip files and your filled in hooks in one folder so next week starts faster.
- ☐ Block 40 minutes next week to record the next batch while this is still warm.

Want this done for you? Record rough. We make it good.
